Can’t find the time or resources to wander through Europe this summer? Come enjoy the visual splendors of Europe here at UCR. Study over a thousand years of fine craftsmanship and artistic production in five short weeks. While this may not serve as an antidote for your wanderlust, it is guaranteed to increase understanding in preparation for that next trip.

This fast-paced survey course explores works of art produced principally in Europe, from the early Middle Ages through the High Renaissance (c. 5th–16th century). Utilizing the tools of art historians, we will discuss the masterpieces generally considered as belonging to the canon of art, as well as lesser-known works. We will learn about various art media (e.g., sculpture, architecture, frescoes, mosaics, and paintings), consider the function and role of art, and develop a working knowledge of terminology, style, and iconography (content).
